Two plans 'markedly different'

'No city staff interference' Chamber claims

PLEASANTON — Accusations that the city staff asked the Chamber of Commerce to carry the ball on redevelopment are false, Chamber president Ben Fernandez said yesterday.

Fernandez answered charges made Wednesday by Citizens Against Re-Development. CARD charged that the city staff tried to influence the Chamber into sponsoring the staff's revised redevelopment plan so it would look like a plan originating in the community.

The Chamber came up with its own plan and it was markedly different from the city's revised plan, said Fernandez. The Chamber's plan included the Youth Sports Park, the Reynold C. Johnson industrial property, and the multiply-zoned area around the future regional shopping center which is zoned for mulitples, said Fernandez.

There was some contact with the city staff, but those meetings provided information for the Chamber to research its plan — there was no influence from the city staff, said Fernandez.

"The city never approached us. Even when they hinted, we said, 'Let us do our own," said Fernandez.

- "We did not want to write the city's plan I have never worked on something with people who had so much integrity." He called CARD's accusations, featured in the local press yesterday, "a classic case of mass paranoia". He said that he and CARD co-chairman Wally Mayer had met with City Manager William Edgar a few months ago and at that time Mayer favored the concept of redevelopment, though not the city's original plan.

"Then he went back to his organization and changed his tune," said Fernandez.

"I felt there were many good things about redevelopment," Mayer responded yesterday. "But that meeting with Edgar occurred in October when I felt it had an upside gain with a downside risk. That night I went to the CARD meeting and luckily the intelligence on my commmittee was greater than mine. Until that CARD meeting, I, like Fernandez, was trying to think how I could help out the city.

There were other comments yesterday on CARD's allegations that city files show the staff purposely tried to manipulate the public on the redevelopment issue.

CARD felt the strongest evidence on this charge was a memo from Edgar which stated the original discredited plan should be revised and "take on the idea that it is a plan which has emanated from the community and presented to the council rather than a plan prepared by the city and presented to the community." The phrase "take on the idea" sounds like Edgar had stage-managing in mind, said CARD member Don Savery.

Edgar, the memo's author, said yesterday: "All the files are open for the public to use. If they want to take things out of context, they can. The memo was my honest evaluation of the public hearing August 11. It was obvious the community was distrustful of the original plan and would not tolerate one from the city.

"If redevelopment were going to succeed, it had to be supported by the community. Subsequent to that time, Bernie Gerton went to the Chamber of Commerce and asked them to revise the plan," said Edgar.

Mayer, who had been vice-chairman of CARD under the late chairman Gerton, disputed Edgar's claim that Gerton asked the Chamber to revise the plan. Gerton raised objections to the plan and asked for higher downtown priorities in it before the Chamber, but he did not ask the Chamber to author a revised plan, said Mayer.

Edgar was unavailable for comment about his semantic intentions in the memo.

Councilman William Herlihy declined to comment on Edgar's rhetorical choice, but felt the sense of the memo was that the staff should solicit as much community input as possible on the plan. "That's part of the staff's job — to get the community involved," said Herlihy "Edgar was trying to say, the staff couldn't do it all by themselves. They needed community input."

Councilman Robert Philcox said that CARD's accusations amounted to "coming down to gutter politics."

"I could go through anyone's files and make something out of what I find there," said Philcox. "If anyone knows the members of the Chamber committee, you know you can't manipulate them and make puppets out of them." (The committee members included Philcox, Fernandez, Ray Young, Warren Harding, Ted Mann, George Spiliotopoulos, and Ken Mercer.) The context of Edgar's memo was the message that citizens were needed to work on the plan, not just the city staff, said Philcox. "I agree with that concept. The acceptance of the plan has to come from the community. That's the philosophy of that memo. They were not trying to be sneaky," said Philcox. Interpreting Edgar's memo as sneaky manipulation is a "smear kind of politics", said he said.

"CARD is trying to find reasons to make the agency plan look bad," commented Councilman Roger McLain. "They want it defeated at the polls. They are trying it in the paper. By the time it does go to the public, it will look bad. I can take any memo and make a statement look contrary to the public interest.

"CARD is not talking about the meeting described in the memo, but about one sentence. It's ridiculous. I could take some of their stuff and do the same thing, but what do we achieve?"

Revenue hearing scheduled

PLEASANTON — The city council will conduct a public hearing Monday night to get citizen input on how to spend $76,609 in federal revenue-sharing funds.

The money is the second increment in a three year funding program which will total $226,619. The first increment, approved last year by the federal government, is $36,285. The final increment will amount to $113,725.

The council made a policy statement last year declaring it will spend the money on water lines for Harris Acres and a partial extension of Peters Avenue. It did not authorize any work at that time because the relatively small size of the first year grant prohibited any meaningful progress on either project, according to Planning Director Robert Harris.

If the council decides to earmark both the first and second increments for the two projects, it may be possible to begin work on both next year, said Harris.

Bargaining bill

District studies SB 160

"The Rodda collective bargaining bill (SB 160) is a conspiracy of the Zerox Corporation and full employment for attorneys," or so the saying purportedly goes.

Teachers and administrators of the Amador - Pleasanton school districts had a chance to weigh that statement during a two - hour seminar Thursday led by James Cribben of the County Department of Education.

But while Cribben may have meant it facetiously, the landmark legislation could in fact cause school district copiers and legal representatives to work overtime once the bill becomes effective Jan 1, 1976.

Thursday's seminar was the first of a six - session series under the auspices of Amador Adult Education and open to district administrators, principals, teachers and "any others interested in management improvement." Next session is Thursday, Dec. 18 with Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel, discussing negotiations.

The Rodda Act makes wages, hours of employment, health and welfare benefits, class size, procedures to be used for evaluation of employees and procedures for processing grievances all negotiable.

Negotiations would be between representatives of certificated personnel, classified, management and supervisory and the administration.

It is in the certificated area where the tug-o'-war for the hearts and minds of personnel may become fierce.

Cribben Thursday estimated the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) is spending $5 million and "bringing in organizers from outside the state" in an attempt to swell the ranks of chapters throughout the state. He claimed the California Teachers Association is putting out about $2 million for the same purpose.

The power struggle is precipitated by Rodda procedure that says certificated employees will be represented in salary and benefits negotiations by the majority teacher body.

However, this could be challenged in advance of negotiations by any "dissident" group claiming 30 per cent of certificated staff memberships or any other minority group.

The bill, signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., provides for establishment of an Educational Employment Relations Board of three members who will have virtual carte blanche powers. All will be appointed by Brown and receive $36,000 a year. Between Jan. 1 and April 1 their duties will be defined and the trio will have the power to appoint an executive director to carry out the day - to - day business engendered by the Rodda Act.

Among the other powers to be vested in the three - person board will be those of establishing lists of mediators and arbitrators, recommendation of legislation, entering into employee and employer contracts, holding hearings and taking of testimony for court action.

Cribben told the 40 present Thursday that, under present California law, public employees have no right to strike and the Rodda Act is ambiguous on this.

He contended that employees could go out on strike and the net effect would just be a delay in arriving at an agreement.

Cribben, in response to a question from Supt. Bruce Newlin, said the EERB and the courts would probably have to decide the looming conflict of maintenance of membership (a form of union security) and tenure.

Dr. David Carlisle, director of research and development for Amador - Pleasanton, asked Cribben if there could be two teacher rep groups in districts with a common leadership team (such as Amador - Pleasanton). Cribben replied there could be separate rep groups or a single one.

CARD won't be pleased

Ballot wording nailed down

PLEASANTON — "Shall the Pleasanton City Council continue to act as the Pleasanton Redevelopment Agency for the purpose of implementing the proposed, revised redevelopment plan?"

That is the exact wording of the ballot measure proposal that City Attorney Ken Scheidig will offer to the city council for consideration at Monday night's council meeting.

All five council members had seen the proposed wording and given it their preliminary approval earlier in the week, and are therefore expected to give it final approval Monday.

The wording of the ballot measure had been considered critical by Citizens Against Redevelopment (CARD) for correct interpretation of the electorate's true feelings by city council.

CARD's Wally Mayer asked that the wording focus on whether people want redevelopment in any form, and not refer to the proposed $4.55 million, six project plan.

"Should the Pleasanton Redevelopment Agency exist?' That is the real issue," Mayer said. "The city has been flim-flammed the public on this, and I think they are getting fed up."

"The specific plan is not the issue — the issue is the redevelopment agency, whether it should continue to exist," Mayer said.

Mayer had charged earlier that if a measure referring to the specific plan had failed, city staff might conclude that the concept of redevelopment was acceptable, but just the specific plan was flawed. They could then continue to churn out plan after plan awaiting either public approval or weariness to finally accept the plan.

But if the measure simply said, "Should the Pleasanton Redevelopment Agency continue to exist?", there would be no doubt of the voters' wishes, Mayer said.

Attorney Scheidig defended the proposed wording, saying that voters could identify with a specific plan and vote on the concept of redevelopment at the same time.

"The proposed wording takes into consideration the desires of the citizens that feel that the question of redevelopment itself should be on the ballot but also including reference to the plan in order that the discussion which will occur relating to redevelopment will have a definite redevelopment program to which it can relate," Scheidig wrote in the agenda.

The ballot measure will be voted on at the March 2, 1976 election.

The specific plan calls for a six project, $4.55 million plan to revitalize the downtown and provide better traffic patterns.

CARD voted Tuesday night to hire an attorney and challenge redevelopment. One of the points CARD previously charged as illegal was inclusion of Stoneridge in the plan.

BART boost called ripoff

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — An Alameda County Municipal Judge last week called BART fare increases "a rip-off," and suggested reducing "outlandish" executive salaries by 10 percent.

In a letter to Bay Area Rapid Transit District General Manager Frank Herringer, Berkeley's judge George Brunn said he is "singularly unimpressed by the recent fare increase and the PR nonsense used to justify it."

Excerpts of his letter appeared in The Inter-City Express, an Alameda County newspaper specializing in court calenders and legal information, and used extensively by judges and attorneys.

The judge's letter apparently was written as a citizen-taxpayer, according to the Express, and does not represent an official judicial decision.

Chiding BART for not "keeping one's commitments," the judge challenged the district's fare increases "averaging 21 percent."

"The fare hike from Berkeley to San Francisco is over 30 percent and from Berkeley to the Oakland Coliseum the percentage increase is even higher," he steamed.

Long-promised direct service from Richmond and Berkeley to San Francisco still has not started, he said accusing the district of "charging more for less."

East Bay commuters "pay more for a slower commute than on the AC Express bus — and in addition pay for BART on their property and sales tax as well.

"That's not a transit system, that's a rip-off."

BART has failed to follow the precident of other businesses in financial trouble, he charged, "namely to reduce salaries." Those salaries, he told the $68,500 per year Herringer, are "outlandish."

"Reduce the salary of each BART employe whose compensation is more than $20,000 by 10 percent," the judge suggested. In addition, the rate increase on the Richmond line should be suspended until direct service to Daly City is started.

"One final comment," judge Brunn concltded. "For years we were treated to an endless phony public relations barrage by your predecessor (Bill Stokes). BART's actions — or inactions — speak a lot louder than its words."

Zone 7, LAVWA in redundant contest

Officials of the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency are questioning whether talks between Zone 7 and the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency weren't an "exercise in futility."

BASSA directors wondered aloud at their Wednesday night meeting why they were listening to testimony from Zone 7 and LAVWMA since an August, 1975, resolution by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board stated that Zone 7 should be recognized as "the most logical agency to serve as overall water quality management planning agency for the Alameda Creek watershed above Niles."

BASSA president Ralph Bolin asked Arthur Harris to check with the Regional Board to be sure the hearing wasn't "an exercise in futility." Bolin said he believed BASSA is still bound by the Regional Board's inital request, March 1974, to proceed with the public hearing and make a recommendation as to which agency should be designated lead agency.

LAVWA chairwoman Lila Euler addressed the directors first. She argued LAVWA should be named lead agency for planning and wastewater implementation of "coordinated water plan management."

Euler said BASSA's own resolution in June 1974 approved that role for LAVWA. She said LAVWA had met the four criteria set forth by BASSA:

- Capability to plan, build, operate wastewater collection systems, treatment works and disposal facilities to serve area under consideration.
- Demonstrated willingness to implement such a program.
- Intention to integrate with LAVWA facilities
- Development of a sound program for integrating sewage facility planning with land development and air quality issues.

Director Harlan Zodtner stated the position of Zone 7 of the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

Zodtner argued the zone has an "outstanding track record in services rendered" its constituents under the criteria BASSA established.

The zone, Zodtner said, has the responsibility of managing underground water basins, and is "concerned about the rapid growth of septic tanks and increased land disposal of effluent which can contaminate the underground waters."

He cited the May 1975 resolution by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors recognizing the zone as "the most logical agency to serve as overall water quality management planning agency for the Alameda Creek watershed above Niles."

That Board of Supervisors resolution, however, excluded the territories within the boundaries of Livermore, Pleasanton and Valley Community Services District, and urged the zone to coordinate with overall watershed planning with LAVWA and other necessary agencies.

Zodtner noted the zone is empowered by state law to operate sewage facilities, in addition to its responsibility of maintaining the quality of water delivered to the district.

BASSA directors also received testimony from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which pledged to "work closely with any agency designated lead agency"

The Alameda County Farm Bureau, Contra Costa and Alameda Counties Cattleman's Association, Las Positas Ranchers, and five private landowners spoke in favor of Zone 7 being given lead designation.

All public testimony and written statements have been referred to the BASSA planning committee.

A recommendation from the committee is not expected to reach BASSA directors for action until late December at the earliest. Bolin said the issue most probably would not be decided until the third Wednesday in January, 1976.

Herlihy will?

Vice Mayor William Herlihy is expected to announce his candidacy for a second term with the Pleasanton council in a Sunday afternoon "Advise and Consent" party set for his residence. First elected in 1972, Herlihy has served two terms as vice mayor. He has resided in Pleasanton since 1963.

'With modifications'

Oakland 6th city to accept solid waste plan

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The county's proposed plan for "solid waste management" received its sixth city endorsement Tuesday night when the Oakland City Council accepted — "with modifications" — a county-wide citizens' advisory committee's recommendations.

The advance was offset, however, when the Fremont City Council accepted the plan only after adding a set of amendments lobbied by the Oakland Scavenger Co.

It drew one even when the City of Hayward deferred a decision, but council members informally voiced support for a majority of the plan's provisions.

A county-wide "Solid Waste Management Plan" must be submitted to the state by Jan. 1, 1976. A new state law requires recycling 25 percent of all solid waste by 1980.

In accepting the citizens' committee plan, Oakland rebuffed the scavenger company's demand for a 25 year commitment to its San Leandro transfer station and Altamont Pass dump site.

Oakland City Councilman John Sutter charged OSC with negotiating with the existing, multi-city Joint Refuse Rate Committee to establish 25 year contracts as "necessary" to finance its San Leandro — Altamont Pass plan when two San Francisco scavenger companies "were able to finance comparable garbage transfer systems with only five year contracts."

OSC can "prolong the life of the San Leandro Dump by compacting garbage," he said, adding the Altamont Dump Plan "does not meet state requirements."

He claimed a report by county planning director William Fraley shows the "existing land fill capacity will last six to seven more years (Vasco Road and the Durham Road sites)."

Oakland's resolution agrees with the committee's recommendation to create a "Solid Waste Management Board," also opposed by the scavenger company.

The board should bse representative of the population it serves, said Sutter. Oakland claims 36 percent of the county's people, and hence should comprise a like portion of the board.

Alternatively the East Bay Municipal Uitilities District (EBMUD) could serve as the solid waste board.

EBMUD intends to operate an "energy recovery facility" jointly with Pacific Gas and Electric, according to Sutter. That plant would cost an estimated $50 million.

The "short range" disposal problams, he added, must be resolved "with/out delay."

Meanwhile, the Hayward City Council swept the report to an additional work session, but it is ready to accept most of the plan's provisions.

Oakland became the sixth city to accept the committee's plan and overrule scavenger company arguments.

Pleasanton, Livermore, Alameda, Albany and Piedmont already had approved the citizens' committee recommendations.

The driver, waiting outside for his passenger to return, ran away from the scene only seconds before police arrived.

Police arrested Timothey Lynn Thrash, 28, as he walked out of the apartment. Thrash told police he had lost a wallet at a party two months earlier, and was searching for the party host, when he allegedly broke down the door.

Thrash said the wallet contained pawn shop receipts for $2,000 in guitar equipment.(cpDuring a body search, police found three white tablets they believed to be benezdrine. Thrash was booked for investigation of burglarly and possession of illegal narcotics

Collision injures two

Two people were injured Wednesday when their cars collided on Maple St. around 5 p.m.

William Salvatore Garrison, 17, of 513 Egret, and Elsie May Wright, 72, of 1349 Tulip, the drivers of the two cars, were injured in the accident.

Police said Garrison attempted too wide of a right turn from 5th St. onto Maple and collided with Wright's vehicle. Garrison's car was entirely on the left half of the roadway at the point of impact, police said. They cited him for failure to drive on the right half of the roadway.

$300 amplifier stolen

LIVERMORE — A $300 amplifier was stolen from Sonoma School sometime during the weekend, police said yesterday.

Bank sustains vandalism damage

PLEASANTON — Vandals caused an estimated $2,500 damage by throwing rocks into windows and a sign at the First National Bank on Main St. over the weekend.

A bullet-proof window and the large outside bank sign were both damaged, police said.

Better water assured

LIVERMORE — Valley Community Services District yesterday received assurances from Zone 7 that the zone would "do its best" to eliminate pumping water from its underground wells, thus improving the quality of water delivered to VCSD.

The joint meeting of the two agencies' water committees had been called by VCSD to discuss VCSD's "grave concern over the quality of water we are currently receiving and the quality of water we expect to get."

Public Works Director Doug Nelson said VCSD's most pressing problem is great variance in the hardness of water supplied by Zone 7 during the day.

Mun Mar, Zone 7 chief engineer, said this is an interim problem caused by the zone's need to pump well water at peak demand periods.

He said the situation should improve by next March when the zone will deliver 90 per cent treated water and 10 per cent well water. Start-up difficulties with the Del Valle plant have delayed abandonment of the zone's wells.

VCSD Director Ron Hyde said, "I don't think people understand how, why, and what you're doing to improve water quality." He suggested complaints might be alleviated if people understood the steps the zone is taking.

Mar said, "we're improving a little every day," adding the zone might be able to stop pumping well water by next March.

Theft report's data clarified

The Times of Oct. 22 carried a news item headed "$1.62 shoplifting arrest leads to rich lab loot." That item failed to make clear the role played in that case by Eugene Caldeira of 7491 Mines Road in Livermore.

The report prepared by Livermore city police lists Eugene Richard Caldeira of 7491 Mines Road as a suspect in that case. However no formal complaint has been filed against Caldeira with the District Attorney's Office, The Times is informed.

Caldeira also notes that The Times story "fails to state that Fernan Tuccoli was a tenant on the property at 1119 Greenville Road," the site where Tuccoli was arrested on the shoplifting charge, and where investigating officers say they found some $10,000 in tools, cabinets and equipment allegedly belonging to the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. The search of that Greenville Road site was made with the cooperation and assistance of Eugene Caldeira, who police say owns that property.

Caldeira was placed under arrest on Oct. 18 and transported to Livermore Police Department for booking. The case is now being reviewed by the District Attorney's office in Livermore, according to Harry Murphy, Assistant District Attorney.

Castlewood law suit dismissed

PLEASANTON — A six and one-half-year-old law suit against Castlewood Country Club that claimed more than $70,000 in real property damage to an Oak Lane home was dismissed last week after an out-of-court settlement was reached.

Marilyn and James Kane filed suit in May, 1969, claiming a water diversion project by the club ruined their $75,000 home.

The suit alleged the club diverted surface water through ditches and trenches onto the Kane's property eroding the hillside, cracking the interior and exterior of their home and dislodging a wooden outside deck.

The couple claimed the home was worth no more than $5,000 after damaged, and sued for the $70,000 difference plus $100,000 in general damages.

Lawyers for both the Kanes and the Country Club refused to divulge the amount of the settlement.

The suit was dismissed "with prejudice," however, thus precluding further litigation.

Other neighbors had banned together and sued the club claiming their property also was damaged. That joint suit was settled last year. No dollar figure was announced in that case, either.

The Kanes' case bantered through the courts for more than six years and produced a file of legal paperwork more than an inch thick.

Depositions were delayed when James Kane, a Lawrence Livermore Laboratory employe, was transferred to Washington, D.C. He flew back to the valley to give his testimony.

The Kane's attorney, Philip B. Bass of San Francisco in turn accused attorneys for the defense of refusing to comply with his client's deposition questions.

Pre-trial conferences and trial dates were continued several times while waiting for depositions, and, at one point, for the conclusion of the neighbors' joint suit.

In that case, a jury found the Castlewood Country Club innocent, but a successfull appeal sent the case back to court.

The second jury found for the plaintiffs. During its appeal the case was settled out of court.

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) - A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the American public.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries - the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

ABANDONED IN 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $100,000.00 had been spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates.

These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collectors' items and have been appraised by a member of the Antique Appraisal Assoc. of America, Inc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

Now, after 38 years these full color 11"x14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 15 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Art Surplus, Dept.27G, 4816 Mac Arthur Blvd. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Mastercharge and Bank-Americard OK (give card number and expiration date).

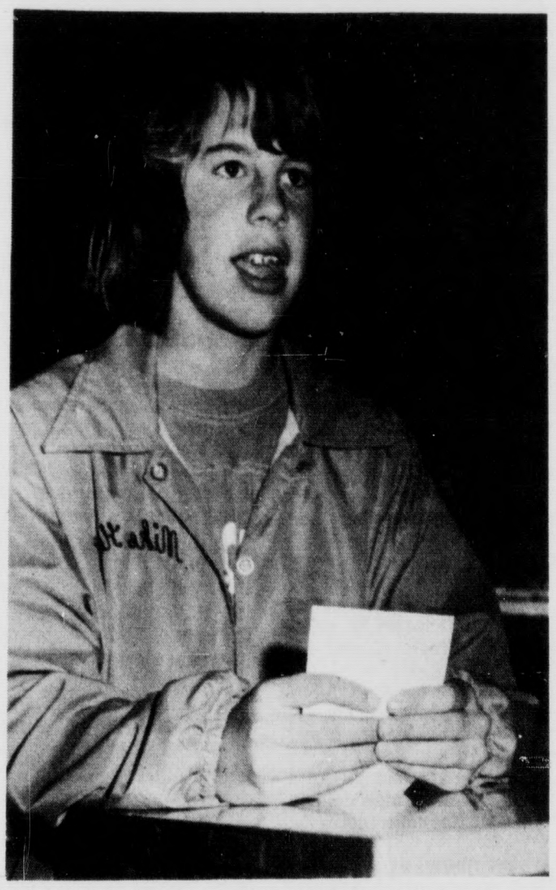
New bargaining unit recognized

LIVERMORE — The Mid - Management Association has been given official city council recognition as the new bargaining unit for the group's 16 mid - management employes.

Officers for the association are Carl T. Carlin, president; Bill Loftin, vice president, and Lee Kerin, secretary.



ELAINE MERRITT, seventh grader at California High in San Ramon, gives her speech for "live" and video tape audiences.

SR teacher leads speech techniques

SAN RAMON — "We need to have students graduating with at least minimum competencies," comments Dan Sapone at California High School in explaining the basis for the Phase English program at the San Ramon Valley district school.

The youthful and enthusiastic Sapone presently teaches speech to a pair of seventh grade classes and a mixed senior high class.

Sapone is presently working with seventh graders on video taping speeches of 3 to 5 minutes duration.

Object of the exercise is to improve the research skills of those involved and to make them aware of effective presentation methods. The latter would sub - categorize speech subject, voice projection, rapport with audience and appearance.

Students make a total of four speeches on subjects of their own choosing. The third of the four is video taped.

"I invite the parents to come see the video tapes," Sapone says, "so they can see something GOOD the kid has done rather than just hear about it."

The first speech must be an informative talk, the second a persuasive speech — where they have to present an issue such as gun control, smoking, etc.— and the third is the video-taped talk that can be on anything from the San Francisco Earthquake of 1906 to how to train dogs. The four speeches are given over the course of a quarter.

Sapone interjects that the speaking exercise is just one part of the Phase English program." The program is something that everybody goes through at the beginning of their enrollment here at Cal High," Sapone comments. "If the student should complete minimum competencies a semester early, he can then go on to electives (classes of his choice)."

Sapone reiterates that "minimum competencies" are those levels of reading, writing, speaking and math skills necessary "in order to survive."

Students are asked to write positive comments about the speeches their peers give. They also receive a "grade sheet" from Sapone on the informative and persuasive speeches with a maximum of 10, 15, 20 or 25 points awarded in judgemental areas such as opening remarks, eye contact with audience, confident appearance, background information, fairness to both sides of issue, enthusiasm and sincerity, note cards and outline and audience participation.

Highest possible score is 200.

But Sapone emphasizes that the speech - making is only part of the total program, which includes striving for minimum competency in reading and writing as well.

WANTED — a plan for the pits

Isn't it about time for some serious talk about the gravel industry, the movement of millions of tons of material, and the 3000-acre hole that will some day be the only residue of all that activity?

With 40 years of quarrying behind us, and another 30 years still to go, it would seem that government and industry and common sense dictate something more intelligent than the series of meaningless, childish games that everybody has been playing in the pits.

Consider for a moment that, after the first 30 years of digging, the only visible "reclamation plan" has been development of an aquatic facility within just one of those pits ... but that was developed with no provision for access to that "regional park" from areas outside the Livermore-Pleasanton confine.

We just keep piling more truck and vehicular traffic onto the thin Stanley Boulevard strand that is scarcely equipped to handle either. And we just keep throwing verbal garbage into those holes, spending more on studies and hearings and rebuttals than has ever been spent on just one meaningful project for that desecrated soil.

It all seems so wasteful, so terribly stupid.

On Dec. 2, in the board of supervisors chambers in Oakland, yet another "reclamation plan" for yet another new pit will be heard. And, just once more, there will be a lot of fancy engineering talk which won't amount to a damn. And another hole will result, and more trucks will roll, and away we go again.

The land that is given us is worth something more. The industry that is essential to our economy is worthy of a better legacy. The government that is supposed to be responsible can do better, so very much better.

There is opportunity to begin, on Dec. 2, in the supervisors chambers at Oakland. And unless somebody breaks the mold, nothing will happen then, again.

Bicentennial Fair

First the good news: The board of directors for the Alameda County Fair Association has decided that a parade is worth preserving, at least for the nation's 200th birthday celebration.

Now the bad news: If the advance planning for that 1976 cavalcade is to be anything like the preparation for parades of our recent past, then we might as well forget it.

Without wanting to cast any stones on those who labor without pay (and without much thanks) to produce that Fair Parade each year, an honest observation would be that we have been getting pretty much what we deserve. Mailing out "entry blanks" to the same tiresome list of lodges, military units and funky commercial cars; mimeographing the same old rules and prize list that have prevailed for lo' these many years; scrambling around at the last minute for a no-cost parade marshal before we wind up begging Ben Davidson to lead us just one more time ... none of this can hardly be construed as Class A effort for a Class A parade.

If the fair board really wants to salute the bicentennial, and really wants a parade — and indeed a 1976 County Fair — to reflect that same festive occasion, then the time to start building those festivities is right now.

Would it be asking too much for the appropriate Fair Board Committee to meet with the valley's chambers of commerce and Jaycee chapters to initiate REAL planning for a REAL Bicentennial Fair Parade? Could we then go on to talk about the entire two-weeks' schedule for that 1976 Fair ... including pageants, featured events, barbecues and premiums?

There is ripe opportunity here to climax the valley's bicentennial effort using the biggest July 4 festivity in Northern California as our focal point. And if the fair board pulls that off, they might just rekindle the kind of community interest which annually made the County Fair, and the Fair Parade, the brightest of our entertainment stars.

LIGHTER TIMES

By AL FISCHER

Tis a wee secret, but one that should be kept.

The Sisters MacMillan in San Ramon are practicin' mightily these days for the annual Nationalities Party given by their parents each year.

The ladies are better known as Bonnie Hutchins, principal at Walt Disney School, and Maggie Abbott, secretary at Neil Armstrong School. They, and a third sister, Terry Hanifen, a teacher at Harvest Park, and brother Jim, will give their rendition of the Highland Fling Dec. 6 at their parents' home in Danville for 50 or so family members and close friends.

We were afforded a preview of the Highland Fling earlier this week with Mesdames Abbott and Hutchins whirling about the Armstrong School library area in full green plaid mufti.

The ladies cut a nifty figure ... as well a Highlands dancer being taught by Millie Von Konsky should.

The green plaid to be worn by the MacMillan clan comes directly from the old sod. Aye, laddie, and that be Scotland!

In previous years the senior MacMillans, who as you might suspect are very family - oriented, have saluted the German, Spanish, Swiss and Italian cultures.

And Dec. 6, which is St. Nicholas Day, should be every bit as colorful. But please keep it a secret, about the MacMillan lasses planning on doing the Highland Fling for their parents that day.

* * *

Those two ol' country boys Neil Sweeney and John Bristow were called upon to do some old-fashioned roping and herding the other day.

Seems one of the dogies pastured near the Amador - Pleasanton school district offices took a liking to the building (perhaps thinking that's where the hay is made) and strayed over to the building.

Joan Mackay spotted the stray and alerted Sweeney and Bristow.

Country Boy Sweeney and Rancher - turned - City - Boy Bristow immediately set to herding the young steer back to pasture.

In fact, after getting the runaway headed in the right direction, Neil herded it all the way past the sewer farm to where the rest of the cattle were with John following along in his car!

Now ain't that just like a city boy!

FOCUS/State test results

The family influence

The results of the statewide scholastic achievement tests administered last spring by the state Department of Education, showing elementary students in the Pleasanton, Sunol, Murray and San Ramon districts near the top of the scale and urban districts towards the bottom, should be of no surprise to observers of the Bay Area education scene.

Doubtless, many of these observers will point to the vast socio-economic differences of those youngsters in Oakland, New Haven (Union City), Emeryville and Pittsburg as compared with those in Pleasanton, Piedmont, San Ramon and Lafayette.

And for the most part they are right.

Yet it is not that simple— to automatically say that a child from the aforementioned areas has little chance of doing well while the youngster from an "advantaged" area has everything in his or her favor.

To slough off the scores of students in the urban areas THAT lightly is to disparage the efforts of teachers, counselors and administrators in those districts.

Conversely, it is not fair to say that children in supposedly affluent areas should automatically do well. This is tantamount to overlooking the work of many dedicated teachers, administrators AND parents.

The difference no doubt dwells in how much support is given the child by his family and peers.

Thus, the child from a moderate to affluent background would tend to have greater access to books, in-home instruction and the gamut of educational experiences.

More often than not the urban or "ghetto" youngster is forced to provide for himself or accept a local, state or federal "handout." The latter could be anything from a free or reduced price hot meal at school to a recreation or school sponsored excursion to some cultural event. The latter frequently takes the form of an athletic event.

But this still does not completely explain the wide difference in scores and again, overlooks the efforts of the teacher and administrator.

Lest the writer be accused of heading this commentary in the direction of a Proff. William Shockley diatribe, let it be said I believe the "difference" lays in the amount of family and community support afforded the youngster.

School districts in the valley should realize that the achievements of their youngsters are not solely the result of what has occurred in the classroom.

The family, no matter if you are talking about Pleasanton, Sunol, Murray or San Ramon, is highly supportive of schools and this fact should be brought forward loud and clear at this time.

Time and again I have witnessed parents voluntarily working with one program or another at the local school level. Yet the public generally has never participated in great numbers at the district or regional level, i.e. school board meetings.

This, then, is the reason for the "difference" in those statewide test scores.. the level of family and/or community support and encouragement.

And though we may be accused of excess pride, let us review those statewide test scores one more time to underscore the commentary.

Sunol students (last spring) averaged 95.9 on their state tests, ranking in the 99th percentile. That means when all the tests were added up, the average Sunol elementary student received a grade of 95.9. The "99th percentile" means the Sunol students did better than 99 percent of all other students taking the test throughout the state.

The tallies for Pleasanton elementary students were 89.9 and 85th percentile , respectively; Amador, 73.8 and 76th percentile, respectively; Murray, 89.3 and 81st percentile, respectively; San Ramon, 91.3 and 90th percentile (elementary) and 77.6 and 94th percentile, respectively; Livermore, 86.1 and 62nd percentiel (elementary) and 74.2 and 78th percentile, respectively.

Scores and percentile levels in Oakland were 73.3-64.7 14th and 6th percentiles. Pittsburg's percentile levels were 19th (elementary) and 39th (high school).

Letters to the Times

Nuclear tricks

Editor, The Times:

H.H. Elliot's Nov. 14 letter charging duplicity with the showing of the film "The Nuclear Energy Dilemma" contains gross inaccuracies.

1. Scientists and government officials, whether for or against nuclear power, concur with the major thrust of the film, which is that No Country Has Solved The Safety Problems in harnessing the atom. Testimony from ERDA officials at the Warren Energy hearing in Sacramento this month is specific in stating: a. — there is still no proven method for storing radioactive waste; and b. major emergency safety systems are still untested.

2. "The Bulletin of Atomic Scientists," May 1975, documents the fact that large nuclear plants have not produced the energy they promised. The poor efficiency record of 45% and rising building costs figure heavily in the cancellation of 60% of projected plants by utilities.

Add to this the fact that the U.S. will have to import uranium to run the existing reactors (So where's energy independency?)

And on top of that the unsolved problem of mounting radioactive waste at plant sites, it's no wonder that 30 states have initiatives similar to the Nuclear Safeguards Initiative on their ballots this year or in the process — (2 have already passed) and 2 countries have building moratoriums on nuclear plants.

A fully educated public can't be tricked, so read widely on the nuclear issue and dig beneath the myths for the facts.

Kudos to Rotary

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of the City of Pleasanton Recreation Department, I would like to thank the Pleasanton Rotary Club for its thoughtful and generous contribution in co-sponsoring our Halloween Fearsome Features at the Veterans Hall.

We were pleased to have a fine turnout of youngsters for the Costume Parade as well as for the Cartoons and Fearsome Features.

Again, kudos to the Rotary Club for its help in making this event a total success.

City experts

Editor, The Times:

In your editorial on the 7th of Nov. you state "But we must always rely on the expertise of those we hire, and the wisdom of those we elect, to guide us in these things."

Please, not always. The good work of the majority of those is diluted by those such as Nixon, Agnew, and Reinecke who were elected, and John Mitchell and others who were hired. And how about those BART expenses? And your editorial of Oct. 26 accurately points out that we need "closer scrutiny by the public" of consultants — hired at the public expense.

That same public scrutiny has lead to the tremendous improvements in the initial redevelopment plan which those we hire and those we elect were going to approve on August 11.

I-680 overcrossing

Copy of a letter to —
Governor Brown:

On May 10, 1971 an agreement was made between the City of Pleasanton (Alameda County) and the Division of Highways to build an overcrossing of I-680 at West Las Positas when justified. There appears to be no question that the justification now exists, but money is the problem. The lack of any CALTRANS construction funds has caused alternatives to be examined locally (such as making the construction a project in a redevelopment areas, or passing a bond issue) but none may be possible, nor should they be necessary as it is a State obligation.

The problem is becoming worse with the continued growth of the City, and as more and more people have reasons to cross the four mile barrier (I-680) which divides Pleasanton. Children from the west side cross to get to the expanding Youth Sports Park on the east. Students from the east side cross to get to the new high school (Foothill) on the west side, and avoid the circuitious bus ride. The fire truck responsible for my house is only a mile away, but it must travel over 6 miles to get to me. Police and every other vehicle are likewise hampered.

So far the only accident caused on the freeway by a pedestrian that I know of was the one of the 30th of May. But the problem can only get worse. Next year the high school will start another grade (12th). More homes are in various stages of construction. Despite warning by both local police and CHP children continue to cross.

Is there some program which could provide funds but which has not been considered? Perhaps some federal safety program?

Donald F. Savery, Jr.

round the town

It came to us as it must to all married couples, I suppose. Even the most ideal of marital partnerships — as she occasionaly reminds me is our particular lot — must face it. Somehow, I thought we might have been exempt.

"It's the kind of cloudy, cold Sunday that's ideal for an inside job," she announced, on that cloudy, cool Sunday. "I think we should clean out the bedroom closets."

Now, just to show you how stupid this husband type is, I would have opted for other pursuits, on this cloudy, cool Sunday. Like six hours of professional football, non-stop. The morning Times (we subscribe) had advised me that both the Raider and 49'er encounters were to be televised that day, not to mention the Redskins and the Dallas bunch. A grid fan's orgy. But only through the eyes of him who does not see life from the inside of a bedroom closet.

"You take everything ... I mean EVERYTHING ... out of your closet," she announces "And then clear out of here while I spray for odor and spiders." It should be noted that I sneeze easy, and I also do not care for spiders. She scores well on both counts.

Have you ever removed everything from your bedroom closet? I mean EVERYTHING!? It is akin to having a garage sale in your house, and inviting the whole blessed town.

There are some things best left unsaid, the poet once observed. He might have added, there are some items best left uncovered. Hidden from the outside world.

"Do you STILL have that funny ice cream suit?" she asks, checking the growing pile on the bed. I was married in that suit, as she well knows. It's a super light weight job. Nice pinky-tan color. With shoulders padded out to there, and pants' legs that billow to match. Made me look like a very early Frank Sinatra, in that movie where he worked the ice cream fountain.

"Put the suit on that pile over there, the one going to St. Vincent de Paul," she orders. I had planned to have the thing taken in, or something. But I am resigned to the growing disparity in my shape and its. I feel much older, and sadder. But we press on.

"You must have six of these white dress shirts with French cuffs," she announces. "You haven't worn a white dress shirt in years." I was hoping they'd come back in style. Like the double-breasted Hart Schaffner and Marx she made me give away three years ago, just before d-b's came back into vogue. I remind her of that, but to no avail.

"You have the darndest collection of funny old pants," she says, without humor. I have the darndest collection of funny old legs, I want to reply. But think better of it. Instead, I advise her that gardening does not require high style or the new slim ankle. The old pants stay, at least those that haven't shrunk four inches around the waist.

"What in heavens name do you have all these belts stuck back way back here on a hook for?" she asks, rummaging in the private depths of my closet. "They all seem to be in good shape."

Yes, and they all belong to the shape of yesteryear, I am reminded. The 32-inch waist is gone, like the five cent ice cream cone, and Frank Sinatra working the fountain. I tell you, cleaning out a closet is enough to make a man sit right down and cry.

She seems to sense my mood, and is want to respond. "If you want to turn on the television and catch part of the football game, you could be doing that while I spray," she says. But my mind is not on the Raiders of 1975. Rather I dwell on the gridirons of the past, when once I romped and tennis'd with the best of them. In my 32-inch belt.

"We seem to have things pretty well sorted out," she decides "That pile goes to St. Vincent, that pile goes to the cleaners, I'll save those funky shirts for dust cloths (DUST CLOTHS?!) and these things over here you can put back in the closet."

It was the smallest pile of them all. A pitiful assortment of colored shirts, three jackets, the blue sweater she had sewn leather elbow patches onto, two belts, 36 inch.

"My, you don't have much to choose from, do you?" she says. I did have, until this black Sunday. Even the things I couldn't wear, at least afforded me a sense of well-being, the man for all seasons, and all pursuits. A closet full of what once was, and — God and fancy willing — might even be again..

But now it's all gone, gone to St. Vincent, or to the great purgatory of dust cloths.

"Well, now, that wasn't so bad, was it?" she declares, proudly, eyeing the neat, sparse arrangement that is my Closet '75.

And now we'll tackle YOUR closet, I announce.

"You go watch your football game," she says, sweetly "I won't need any help with my closet."

Ah yes, and no one to witness the styles and sizes of old, the secrets of time and girth, that only the closet knows.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Probably you will not believe the following, dear readers, but it happened It really happened. And while the story must be considered funny, the beginning was not humorous at all. The story starts with a pair of automobile accidents in which the protagonist was involved, one of which was entirely his fault, the other occuring when his car was parked. Each had happened within a few days after the death of his wife and shortly after the second accident his insurance policy was cancelled and he became an assigned risk. Some years later the following correspondence took place.

Mr. Albert Addlebrain: Sir, Some years ago you struck my client with your parked automobile, causing serious damage to her vehicle. The fact that she was in a moving automobile while yours was stopped at the curb is irrelevant I have a judgement for $546.27 against you. Pay up or I will get your driver's license. (signed) Samuel Q. Squeeze, Attorney at Law.

Samuel Q. Squeeze, attorney at law. Sir, You got your damned judgement while I was grieving deeply over the death of my wife and did not feel up to going to court. Now you can take it and put it in a safe place. I have some suggestions in case you cannot readily find a safe place. In no way could I be at fault when my car was parked at the curb and your client's was moving. Albert Addlebrain, sucker at large.

Albert Addlebrain, Sir: You have failed to pay a judgement in the amount of $546.27. Please send us your driver's license immediately or you are due for a stretch in stony lonesome. The California Department of Motor Vehicles .

Mr. Well In Hand, attorney at law: Dear Well, The DVM has laid its heavy hand on my driver's license. What do I do. I know I should have responded to that damage suit, but just didn't have the heart to go to court. Albert Addlebrain, sucker at large.

Albert Addlebrain: Dear Al, Pay up and get your insurance company to send the DVM form SB 22 and everything will be okay. I'll get a release from good old Sam. Best regards, Well.

(Sure enough, folks, for a sum of $546.27, plus $432.98 attorney's fees to good old Sam and certain other incidental expenses, Albert was allowed to keep his license. The years passed, his driving record was spotless and, in time, he went off the assigned risk list. Shortly before that happened his insurance agent, an old friend, parked his car beside the road on the way to Lake Tahoe and died. Albert procured a new policy at much lower rates than the assigned policy and breathed a sigh of relief. Then the letters started coming again.)

Mr. Albert Addlebrain, Sir: We have a letter from your assigned risk insurance company cancelling your policy. Please send us your drivers license immediately. You can have it back when you find a new insurance policy and supply us with form SB 22. Remember, drivers who do not have licenses wind up in stony lonesome. The California Department of Motor Vehicles.

Well In Hand, Attorney at Law: Dear Well, The DVM wants to lift my license again if I don't get an SB 22. I don't want to disturb my present company with a request like that. What do I do?" Albert Addlebrain, sucker at large.

Albert Addlebrain, Dear Al: Go over to Jack Jest and get a policy for a couple of months. I am sure this thing will work itself out. Well In Hand, Attorney at Law. PS-I found it strange that the DVM dated your letter Sept. 6 and did not mail it until Sept. 18 according to the postmark. Well In Hand, attorney at law.

Albert Addlebrain, Dear Al: Enclosed is your policy with Hold the Dike insurance company for three months. The cost is 150 even. Sorry to see you get stuck like this. Best regards, Jack.

Albert Addlebrain, Sir: Your insurance company sent us SB 1 We need SB 22. Good walking until we get it. California Department of Motor Vehicles.

Albert Addlebrain, Dear Al, The DVM has already received SB 22. They have probably misplaced the document. The DVM is like that. Jack.

(For the sake of brevity, five letters arrived. Alternately the DVM and insurance company accused each other of being in error. Al continued to walk. Finally, on October 31, the following letter arrived.

Albert Addlebrain, sucker at large. Sir: Please disregard all previous mail. The order for suspension is rescinded. An SB 22 is no longer necessary in your case. Hope you enjoyed the walk. California Department of Motor Vehicles. (Ok, folks. I paraphrased a little. But it happened. It really did.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Unlucky Expert had corralled us again. He remarked, "My hand was too good. If I hadn't held the jack of spades I would have made my contract. Instead, I went down two."

"Of course East made a terrific defensive play against me, but my opponents always play that way. He took his ace of clubs and promptly placed the king of spades on the table. Now look what happened to me."

We were able to guess. Our unlucky friend assumed that East held both the king and queen of spades as part of his opening bid. Thus his jack of spades was surely going to be a winner. Therefore, he took dummy's ace of spades and instead of discarding a spade on a diamond promptly led a trump.

East went right up with his ace and led a low spade. It didn't matter what South did next. West collected tricks with his queen and 10 and followed up with the extra blow. He led his last spade.

East ruffed with the jack. South had to overruff and eventually West scored a trick with his 10 of hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

An Illinois reader wants to know what he should have bid next. His hand was:

♠ A K 6 3 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A K Q 9 8 7 ♣ 6

He opened one diamond. Partner jumped to three clubs. He bid three diamonds and partner three hearts.

The answer is that he should have bid three spades with every intention of heading for a slam — probably in notrump.

Mats play MSJ in first playoff

The Turkey Bowl is dead and can the Rose Bowl be far behind?

This evening the North Coast Section, one of the great objectors to football playoffs, will fall into line with the rest of California and present the first round of post-season championships.

You won't find any more of those Thanksgiving bowl games in Northern California, arranged by agreement of two leagues eager to extend football season one week. Every conference has comitted its champion to this two-week tournament.

It's been done with great success throughout the state. And now the reluctant North Coast Section has capitulated to the tone of the times.

Just about the only organization left without a football championship format is the NCAA's major college division. Perhaps the traditionalists there will mellow someday.

It took time in the NCS. There was strong, vocal opposition to playoffs. A lot of people felt the tournament would place too much strain on high school football players. But the kids themselves love it.

"I don't know anybody who wants to quit now," says tackle Ron Freeman of Granada High School. His Matadors meet Mission San Jose this evening at 8 p.m. at Tak Fudenna Stadium in Fremont. "We're just starting to have fun," Freeman says. "In the middle of the season we started to drag a little bit, but now, we want to go."

The Matadors and Warriors meet in one-half of the Four A, or large school playoffs. Clayton Valley and Pinole Valley face off tonight at Diablo Valley College. Next week the two survivors will play for the Four A title.

Mission San Jose is the top ranked team in East Bay football. The Warriors are 10-0. Granada is sixth-ranked with an 8-1 record.

MSJ relies on the brutal running tandem of Kevin Turner, 6-2, 200, and Sean Sullivan, 6-1, 215. Both rushed for more than 1,000 yards this past season.

The Warriors may play with a third-string quarterback this evening. Senior Greg Sullivan took over three weeks ago after starter Kelly Turner went out with a back ailment, and backup Mike Zuniga quit. Turner is not expected to play. But Granada coach Don Couch warns; "You can get a lot better in two weeks."

In Sullivan's two starts at quarterback, Mission defeated Logan, 21-0, and Memorial, 35-6. Sullivan threw four touchdown passes in the final game, though two were nullified by penalties.

"We're pretty sound with our quarterback situation," says Sean Sullivan. "He (Greg) has proved he can do a pretty good job, so there's no worry."

Granada, likewise, has learned to live with changing faces in the huddle this season. Starting quarterback John Walden has been bumped and bruised severely in directing the veer offense. Sophomore Steve Robison has been called on for relief in almost every game.

"We don't even notice a difference any more," says the Mats' leading rusher, Steve Jaeger. "We work with both of them in practice, and they're both good."

"The first time he came in the huddle in a game he scared me," says Freeman of Robison. "But he's done as good a job as Walden."

The Matadors, who opened up their passing attack in defeating league rival Livermore last week, say they'll come out passing at Mission San Jose. No one expects the Warriors to throw, but they did exhibit the potential in defeating Memorial a week ago.

The obvious ploy will be to aim Granada's defense at Mission's two college-sized running backs. "They're always double-teaming and keying on us, though," Sean Sullivan says. "The thing is, they know where you're going, but they don't know when you're going there. If they start slanting into the holes on us, we've got some opposite direction stuff to catch them."

Responsiblity for stopping Turner and Sullivan will go to Freeman, Granada's outstanding tackle, end Ed Ebert and tackle Steve Carpenter, among others.

Glad booters fight for title

Look for emotions to spill over again this weekend when Chabot College defends its Northern California soccer championship against West Valley.

The match is scheduled for 1 p.m. tomorrow in Hayward.

The winner advance to the state finals Nov. 29 in Los Angeles, facing East L.A. College. Chabot tied that team last season to share the California title.

The Gladiators finished their Golden Gate Conference season four points in front of second place West Valley. Over the final month of the season, however, the Vikings were the strongest team in Northern California.

They dropped Chabot, 2-1, in a highly charged game at San Jose Municipal Stadium.

Given the steep emotional level of that contest, and the brawls that permeated Chabot's playoff win against Skyline last Saturday, the potential is there for more fireworks this weekend.

To win, Chabot must stop All-American forward Al Gaspar, a sensation as a freshman, and better this year.

He'll have to get the ball by the Gladiators' All-American goal keeper, Steve Hector.

West Valley has a 13-6 season's record. Chabot is 19-3-1.

Chabot aims for crown

Armed with Northern California's best offensive football player, Chabot College goes in search of the Golden Gate Conference championship tonight at home with it faces Foothill College.

Kickoff is 7:30.

This is the final game of the season, and if the Gladiators can win, they will clinch the title. If they lose, Diablo Valley College can slip into the championship, providing the Vikings defeat San Francisco this weekend.

The league titlist will face Contra Costa College next week for the Northern California championship. That would be a fitting climax for Chabot wide receiver Tom Ferguson, who was voted the region's top offensive player this week by the Nor Cal Football Writers.

Tom will win the GGC receiving crown since he already leads with 51 catches, and the second place man, with 40, is through for the year. Ferguson is also in the running for the state pass catching championship.

Personal ambitions will have to be sublimated, however, at least until the Gladiators can roll up a comfortable margin against Foothill.

Freeman leads All-Stars

Tackle Ron Freeman heads a list of seven Granada High School players named to the All-EBAL football team this morning.

The 6-2, 200 senior is the only Matador named for both the offensive and defensive all-star teams, selected by league coaches. He is a two-way tackle.

The other players selected on both offense and defense are Otto Ribary, offensive guard and linebacker from Amador Valley, and Monte Vista's receiver - defensive back Steve Jones. Ribary is a junior.

Granada dominated the selections with eight berths in the starting offense and defense. Offensive spots went to Steve Jaeger, the senior running back with 855 yards, and tight end Rich Bosch.

Heading up the defense are these Granada players; lineman Ed Ebert, linebackers Tim Duke and Larry Burke, and defensive back Doug Miller.

Rich Palmer of Livermore High is the All-EBAL quarterback. Joining him and Jaeger in the backfield are Jim Boulware of Dublin, and San Ramon's Mike Bowles.

John Sevo of Amador is the specialist.

Seals defeated

The California Golden Seals came into Philadelphia last night in the midst of their best start since they joined the National Hockey Association and were promptly defeated by the Philadelphia Flyers 3-2.

California is now 7-13-2 for the season. The Flyers are 13-3-5. Despite the loss California has already equaled last season's road victory output. The Seals have won four road games this season. The California club is in last place of the Wales Conference's Adams Division.

B78-13 blackwall

All-Weather 78

Goodyear's "All-Weather 78" tire is built with polyester cord that's tempered in an exclusive process for optimum strength and resilience. The wide 78-series tread is "reverse molded" – a technique borrowed from race tire production. In reverse molding, the contour of the tread surface is slightly concave as it comes from the mold – so that when the tire is inflated, the tread makes full, flat contact with the road. The rib tread is well grooved, providing plenty of traction edges for decisive grip. In every detail, the "All-Weather 78" gives you honest quality, at a price that's in step with the time.

2 for $43.60 E78-14 blackwall | 2 for $48.00 F78-14 blackwall | 2 for $50.10 G78-14 blackwall | 2 for $52.30 G78-15 blackwall

Plus $1.88 to $2.69 F.E.T., depending on size, and old tire. Whitewalls available in most sizes at slightly higher prices.

Chabot family symposium set for Dublin auditorium

DUBLIN — A symposium intended to enhance family relationships will be hosted by Chabot College's Valley campus on February 21 in the Dublin High School auditorium.

Entitled "All For The Family," the symposium will explore personal growth within the context of the family, affirm the importance of the family, and explore some of the tools which can be used to enhance family relationships.

"Building Self Esteem in the Family" is the first course of the program and will be addressed by Stanley Coopersmith, director of the Self Esteem Institute and author of three books on the subject.

Winona Christeson, well-known marriage and family counselor and university instructor, will conduct the second course, "Family Problem Solving." She will demonstrate methods of resolving disagreements, assigning chores, and aid in making decisions.

The luncheon session, to be held in the school cafeteria during lunch, will offer an opportunity for participants to discuss issues presented more informally with the presenters. "The Single Parent and the Blended Family" will follow, led by Gary Ware, director of the Single Parent Program for the Hayward Family Service Agency. Panelists for this session will include Pat Arnette, Valley campus student and mother of a blended family; Dorris Fagan, education coordinator for Valley Youth Services, director of the Tri-City Council for Mental Health, and single mother; and Edward Cates, Valley campus speech instructor and single father.

The final session, entitled "More Joy in Your Marriage," will have as its main speaker Robert Lee, author of "The Spouse Gap," professor of Social Ethics, and nationally recognized expert in the area of bridging the spouse gap of the middle years.

Optional, four-week short courses exploring in depth the issues raised during the symposium will follow. These are offered at no charge and provide one-half unit of college credit for each class taken.

The classes are offered at various locations in the valley beginning the last week of February. They are entitled: "Self Esteem in the Family," "Catch 40-Adult Transitions," Value Clarification in the Family," "How to Be Your Own Best Friend," "Transactional Analysis and Your Marriage," "The Single Parent Family," "Family Crisis."

Expense account not enough

'Cocktails for Clark' new fund wrinkle

Richard Clark, the BART board president who has been much in the news lately for his heavy expense account, will try a different financial tack this Friday. Clark is sponsoring a $20-per-person cocktail party as a fund-raiser to pay off some $4000 in campaign debts incurred in his bid for that transit post last year.

Featured at the cocktail affair will be James R. Mills, president pro tem of the State Senate who will conduct "an intimate discussion on mass transit." Listed on the invitations are 23 "co-chairpersons" including many other state legislators and five BART directors.

It was nearly a year ago that Clark and several other elected BART directors announced a "Deficit Dinner" with Senator John Tunney as the listed guest speaker. That gathering was abruptly cancelled following press disclosure, and the subsequent announcement that "Senator Tunney has a conflict in dates."

One legislator who will not attend the Piedmont gathering, even though he is listed as a co-sponsor, is State Senator Alfred Alquist (D-San Jose). Alquist has been critical of BART's financial picture and recently stated that he made a "mistake" by supporting the move to an elected transit board, replacing the appointive panel.

Dec. 1 is last day for filing

SACRAMENTO — William M. Bennett of the State Board of Equalization reminds taxpayers that Dec. 1 is the filing deadline for homeowners' property tax exemption.

At present, Bennett said, new owners of residential property are required to file for the exemption by April 15. However, the law specifies that if a new homeowner, occupying a dwelling as his principal residence on March 1, misses the April 15 deadline, he may file by Dec. 1 and receive 80 per cent of the homeowners' property tax exemption.

Also, Bennett said, a late filing caused by the assessor's failure to mail the form may be accepted up to Dec. 1. In this case, the claimant will receive 100 per cent of his exemption

In the past, the responsibility for filing the exemption claim on time has been entirely the homeowner's.

Let's go window shopping.

Pinto Pony MPG vs. Chevette

What you see on your Ford Dealer's Pinto Pony MPG sticker is what you get: a lower price.

What you don't see is this:

Pinto Pony MPG gives you better gas mileage than Chevette — a pocket-pleasing, gas-saving 34 mpg on the highway, 25 mpg in the city, according to official California EPA estimates. (Your actual mileage will vary according to the way you drive, car equipment and driving conditions.)

Pinto Pony MPG has more horses under the hood — 92 hp vs. Chevette's 52 hp.

Pinto Pony MPG gives you more road-hugging weight, a wider stance, and more standard equipment, too!

Window-shop Chevette, or any other small car. When you get to the bottom line, you'll find that Pinto Pony MPG adds up to one thing: value.

"The bottom line says value!"

Parks open holiday weekend

OAKLAND — Preparations for a traditional Thanksgiving holiday weekend, dining out-of-doors and eating foods of the Coastanoan/ Ohlone Indians, are being made for the public in park lands of the East Bay Regional Park District.

All outdoor picknicking and cooking facilities will be open on a first-come, first-served basis.

Family camping facilities at Las Cumbres in Anthony Chabot, between San Leandro and Castro Valley, and at Del Valle, south of Livermore, will be in full operation. There are 73 units at Las Cumbres and 67 at Del Valle.

Naturalist centers will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, but on Sunday, Nov. 30, the public is invited to gather, prepare and eat foods of Northern California Indians at Coyote Hills and the Environmental Education Center in Tilden Nature Study Area.

The native food demonstration will begin at 2 p.m. at Coyote Hills and at 1 p.m. at the Environmental Education Center on Sunday.

On Saturday, Nov. 29, at Coyote Hills, naturalists will lead walks to the shell mounds of the Ohlone Indians. Walkers will leave at 2 p.m. from the parking lot at the Patterson Road entrance.

BILL HAYDEN

THE BIG SKY sounds like an old Kirk Douglas movie. As a matter of record it is a very new, neat and attractive jewelry store in Livermore featuring turquoise and other Indian art in silver and gold. Pam Weddell, above, has opened the new venture with husband, Pete. The store will feature jewelery designs by Nino and Nancy Padilla from Santa Fe, New Mexico. You will be able to order custom jewelery and there is plenty of material available for do - it - yourself jewelery experts.

NO CAMERA CAN DO JUSTICE to the beauty of sparkling stone, silver and gold on display in the showcase of THE BIG SKY. It will take a personal trip to appreciate all the individual pieces and the spectacular effect of seeing them altogether. Pam and Pete Weddell extend a cordial invitation to everyone who is looking for some special jewelry for themselves or a gift for special people.

LOCATED AT THE CORNER OF First Street and Maple in Livermore, Cheese and Wine Unlimited recently celebrated a ribbon cutting. On hand were Donna Miller, Bonnie Hartwig, Terri Groshong, Ray and Georgianna Viscomi to handle the colorful tape and shears. CHEESE AND WINE UNLIMITED is a very attractive addition to the developing mini-center at the Maple Street location.

ROGER MANTZ of TRI-VALLEY KIRBY presented a $100 to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Guerriero of Livermore. They recent winners of the Kirby Company November 3rd drawing. Terri Groshone, Maid of Livermore, drew the lucky name. The prize was part of a preview demonstration of Kirby home maintenance systems.
